Words from the Editors

Hello out there!

Hope all is well with everyone. We are still in the hay field, and it has been a really good year for hay here in north Georgia! I hope y'all's yield has been as wonderful as ours!

There have been a lot of new straight away events created lately, I hear, and many of them are getting good reviews. Don't know that we will be able to attend any, but we are there in spirit. If you attend, send pictures!

Our reputation as an association is continuing to grow into different locals and countries. We are now in nine countries worldwide, and interest has been generated in others. We're making an impact. So keep putting up those videos on YouTube and Facebook, because more and more people are taking notice!

God bless y'all!

*See y'all sometime,
Ben and Beth Cantrell*

WHAT'S GOING ON IN SHOBA?

Horses registered 25

Horses Transferred 7

New or Renewed Members 23

SHOBA's number one priority is to preserve and promote the naturally gaited single-footing horse. SHOBA will do this by providing, to the best of our ability, a strict gait performance horse registry that is backed up with equine DNA, which provides an accurate, scientific ancestry for each registered horse.

SHOBA recognizes that the single-footing horse is as unique as its uncompromised four beat lateral gait. We are very proud of the single-footing horse and hope to see them excel on the trails and in the show rings. Our intention is to do nothing to jeopardize the integrity of the single-footing horse in anything we do or support.

SHOBA believes that we are blessed with the unique single-footing horse to preserve, promote, enjoy, and provide a means of fellowship with other horse riders. We will promote family oriented trail rides full of fellowship, good times, and horse riding with these wonderfully fast, smooth, single-footing horses to support this belief.

CAMPFIRE RECIPE

Campfire Breakfast Burritos

Ingredients

2 lb. yellow potatoes (cut into 1" pieces)

3 Tbsp. olive oil

1/4 tsp. salt

12 eggs

1/4 cup milk

1/2 tsp. salt & 1/4 tsp. pepper

1 lb. ground sausage

1 green bell pepper (small, diced)

1 red bell pepper (small, diced)

1 small onion (diced)

2 cups shredded cheddar (or Monterrey Jack cheese)

Salt and pepper

12 tortillas

Directions

Cook potatoes with half of the olive oil, eggs with milk, and sausage in a large skillet, one after another

Pour remainder of olive oil in skillet and add red and green bell peppers and onion. Cook until tender.

Add the eggs, potatoes and sausage and continue to cook until well blended and hot through. About 10 minutes.

Salt and pepper to taste

Divide mixture evenly between the 12 tortillas, then do the same with the cheese

Foldup on end of the tortilla, then roll tightly. Place each burrito in a piece of aluminum foil and cover securely.

Place on grill or on hot rock in the fire

Up and Coming Single-Footing Trainer: Featuring Alyssa Kennedy of Hawesville, Kentucky

When I asked for a story about how she got started training or one of her most fulfilling training narratives, she wrote:

I got a phone call one evening from a really good friend of ours who really helped me get all my paperwork in line for my Standardbreds. He called to tell me about a group of horses who belonged to a friend of his who had passed away. He said they were needing homes and getting ready to be shipped for slaughter, so we decided to take the gamble and hop in the truck and head to Ohio.

We brought home four horses, and, in the mix, was this beautiful bay roan standardbred mare, Ala Pam. Her feet were so long that they curled upward. The horses had been kept in a massive barn and fed free choice alfalfa: they were beautiful. But they had not been touched since yearlings, and she was now 10 years old, shy of humans and didn't want to be messed with. But after a few weeks of handling, we finally gained the trust of the herd, and they came around.

We were able to trim their feet, and I even started to saddle break them. We re-homed three right away, but I spent a little more time with Pam. After I gained her trust, had her saddle broke, and had spent a lot of time training her, I decided it was time to re-home her as well. She turned out to be a really great mare, one I was proud of, especially considering that, when she came to us. she had been completely unhandled. I am happy we had the chance to save her. It was a very cool experience to have with a horse. She is now raising foals for Devin White in Louisiana.

Summer sores in horses are a common condition that can affect horses of all ages and breeds across many geographic areas.

Summer sores, also called granular dermatitis, are lesions on a horse's skin that are caused by a microscopic parasitic worm (Habronema).

These painful looking lesions develop when a house fly deposits the worm's larvae within existing wounds on the skin, causing an inflammatory reaction. These areas appear as red raised lesions or open sores that don't heal on their own. They can sometimes be filled with yellow or white granular material created by the inflammation from the larvae.

Three species of Habronema worm are seen most in summer sore lesions: H. muscae, H. microstoma and H. megastoma. All three worms are carried by flies. These infections typically occur when flies are more active, such as in the spring or summer.

Signs of summer sores in horses include: red, raised lesions similar to proud flesh (excessive granulation tissue) that don't heal; yellow or white granular material within the lesions; blood tinged or clear discharge from the lesion, and itchiness.

Summer sores in horses occur when the normal life cycle of the intestinal worm is broken. Instead of depositing the larvae near the horse's mouth where the horse ingests them, flies land near already open wounds or moist areas on the horse's body and deposit the Habronema there instead.

Wounds are not the right environment for Habronema larvae to develop to adults, so they will stay in the wound and cause local inflammation and swelling.

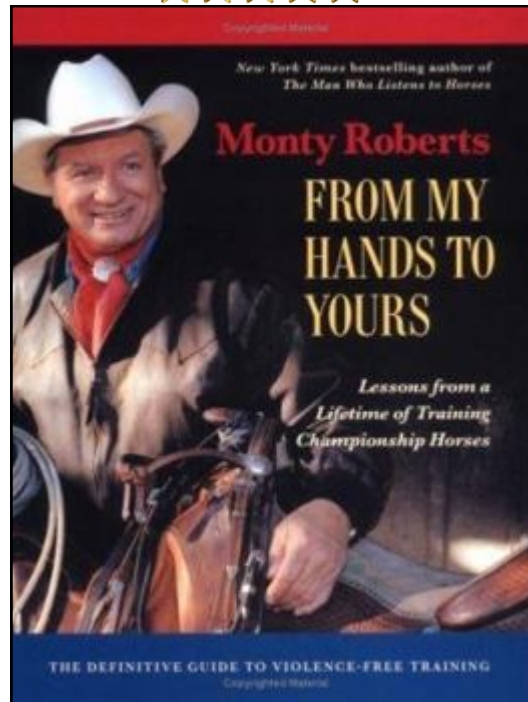

The mainstay of treatment for summer sores in horses is deworming with products such as ivermectin or moxidectin, and may require multiple treatments. These deworming agents can also be used topically (applied directly on the lesion) to maximize the dose impact on the larvae within the wound.

ANVIL TALK

What To Do For Dry Hooves

During the summer, we see a rise in dry hooves due to moisture imbalance resulting from environmental conditions that are too hot and dry.

As the hoof becomes drier it loses elasticity and begins to weaken. When hooves become excessively dry they lose integrity. Once the hoof integrity begins to deteriorate, several other issues can develop.

Low moisture balance in the hooves can lead to loss of elasticity and a brittle hoof that is more likely to crack, chip, split and crumble. The compromised hoof quality can impede your horse's ability to work, train, or hold a shoe.

A horse's external hoof wall acts as a barrier against the germ-laden environment. Hoof cracks and chips create a passage way for bacteria to enter the hoof capsule and to gain access to the nutrient-rich middle hoof wall. This may lead to additional defects and a collapsing hoof horn. Microbial invasions also promote hoof wall separations and the development of White Line Disease.

Maintaining moisture balance is the main objective when attempting to prevent overly dry hooves. The hoof tissue contains phospholipids that control moisture balance within the hoof that can become overwhelmed in environments that are excessively wet or dry. The best way to maintain moisture balance within the hoof is to assist the phospholipids in doing their job. You can do that three ways:

- 1) Restrict your horse's exposure to excess moisture.
- 2) Use a Proven Hoof Conditioner Regularly
- 3) Use a phospholipid supplement that contains fatty acids and phospholipids.

George's Holy Roller, A Spanglo American Racking Colt

George's Holy Roller, pictured here at 16 hours old, is the result of specialized breeding from championship horses registered with NASHA foundation bloodlines, National Racking Horse, Paso Fino, USTA, as well as SHOBA. His Mama Gracie and trainer Shon Robertson admire the confirmation of the head, neck and shoulders.

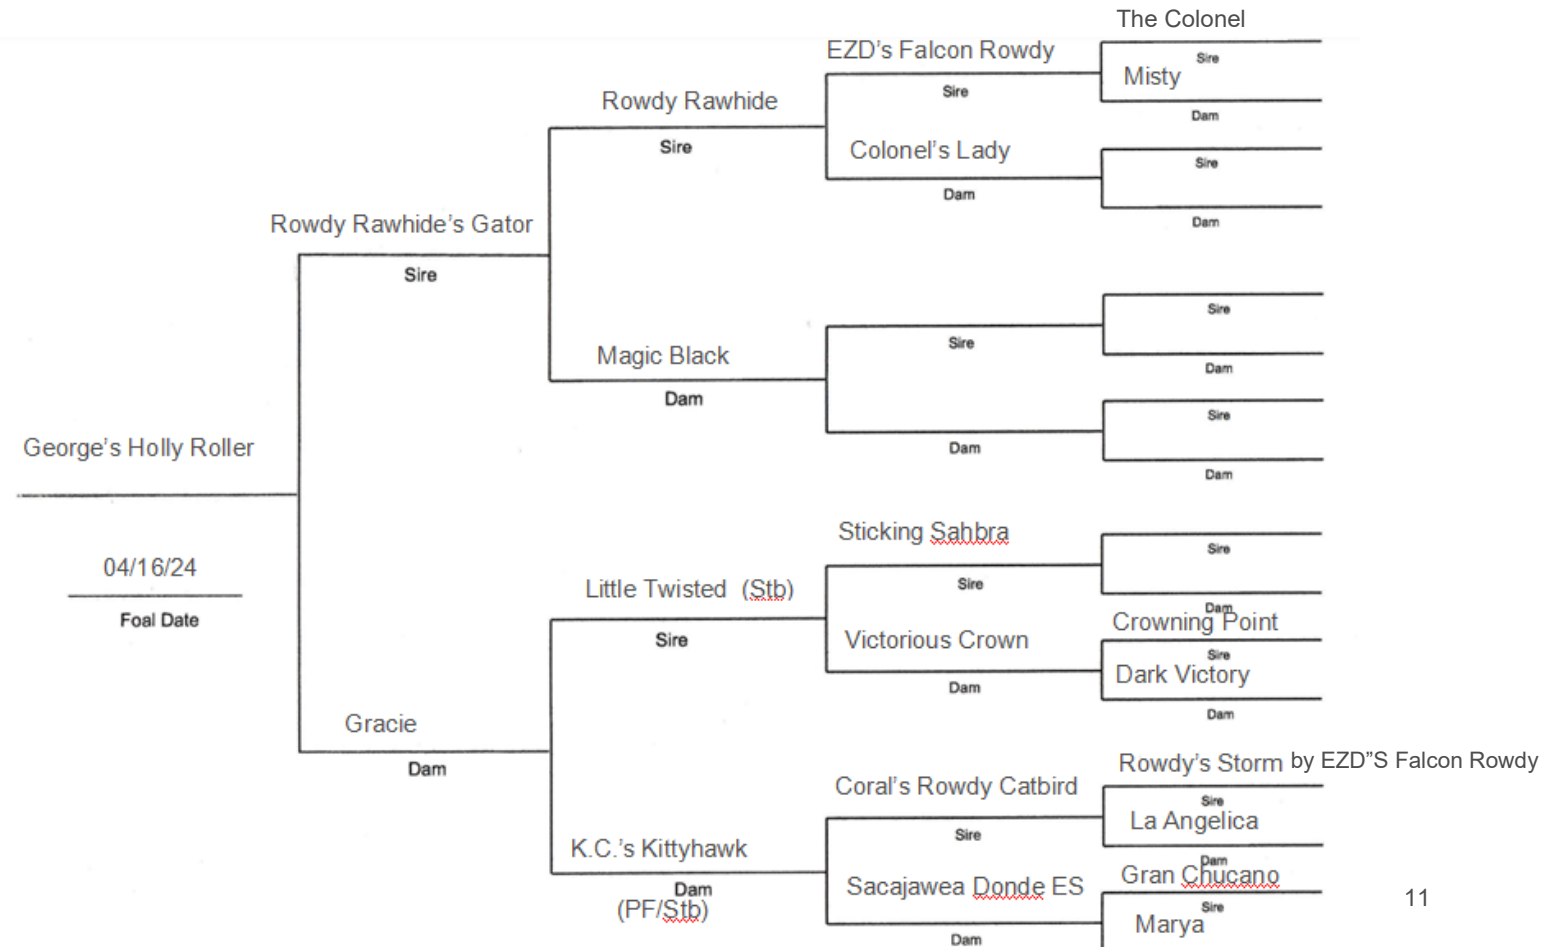

Owned by Craig Stripling of Nacogdoches, Texas, and sired by George Forman's Rowdy Rawhide's Gator, this bay colt is the result of a "30 year mixing, matching, blending, breeding program. ... Based on past or prior premium representatives of nicely going and performing comfortable road and saddling horses, [this colt] will hopefully assure a natural four beat gaiting genetic trait," says Mr. Stripling.

"While there's perhaps no guaranteed master mixing manufacturing formula, it is thought that the 500 year evolved Spanish gaiting gene, by virtue of the herein almost 1/5th inclusion, will assure a non-lateral smooth travel ride in a couple of years to come, when Roller is under saddle!

"Maybe even at a clip that kicks up the dust! We hope! ... This leggy lad should demonstrate a locked in steady strolling Single-Foot scenario."

According to Mr. Stripling, the colt's approximate breed allocation is as follows:

18.75% Paso Fino, 69% Standardbred, 12.25% evolved mixed (possibly Saddlebred and Tennessee Walker strains). As he describes: "a Spanglo American evolved racking horse colt".

The Cajun Classic is a South West Louisiana gaited horse show run by the Bellard and LeMoine family, and caters to the Single-Footing horses. This show was founded to give the horsemen in the southern region a place to come showcase their horses.

The Cajun Classic horse show is very much a family oriented event; we pride ourselves in creating an environment where you can bring your whole family to sit back and relax. At our show we have predominantly keg shod classes, with a few open shod classes. The designated venue where we host the event is West Cal arena in Sulphur, Louisiana, a covered dirt arena with stalls and wash racks located on the outside. The Cal is conveniently located right off of interstate 10, surrounding by multiple hotels, fast food restaurants, and dine-in restaurants.

The judges of the show are both long time trainers Cornelius Belton and Durrel Eglin. Mr. Belton is a long time Louisiana trainer who has competed, made, and sold plenty of horses all over the world; he has owned notable horses such as DrummerBoy, Pitty Pat, and Trouble Maker. Mr. Belton has years of experience judging ring and straight away events at well known events like Big Guns, Thunder On The Mountain, and Fall Brawl. Our second judge, Mr. Durrel Eglin, is a pioneer of the Single-Footing horse in Southwest Louisiana. He and his partner, Doctor Lawrence Mosley, bred and trained some of the first horses to blaze up these gravel roads. Mr. Eglin has also competed all over the country and judged many ring and straight away competitions with 10 plus years experience. The Cajun Classic has attracted some of the top tier riders and trainers from far and near, as well as a variety of communities. This is the success we continue to strive for every year. We thank each and everyone for all the love and support.
