Words from the Editors

Hi y'all!

We have been so very busy this Spring going to several events promoting these amazing horses. Everywhere we go, we are greeted with enthusiasm and great interest. The appeal of the Single-Footing horse appears to be growing by leaps and bounds. It has even taken hold down here in Georgia!

While many of our members are getting more and more into the business of showing, our roots are still in trail riding. When we ride out on the trail, people are amazed at the versatility, speed, willingness, and talent of these horses. And that is where the majority of the sales are generated.

But we are not just about selling these horses, either. Most of our members and friends just want to ride and enjoy the gait, the speed and the wind in their hair! This is the time of year to enjoy the beauty of the country, the rare weather, and the fellowship of like minded people as we cruise the wooded trails and stand for a while in the mountain streams.

So pack up that trailer, get those campfires burning, and enjoy this wonderful land the way it was meant to be enjoyed!

God bless y'all!

Ben and Beth Cantrell

WHAT'S GOING ON IN SHOBA?

The first quarter of 2018:

16 Horses registered

4 Horses Transferred

64 New or Renewed Members

SHOBA's number one priority is to preserve and promote the naturally gaited single-footing horse. SHOBA will do this by providing, to the best of our ability, a strict gait performance horse registry that is backed up with equine DNA, which provides an accurate, scientific ancestry for each registered horse.

SHOBA recognizes that the single-footing horse is as unique as its uncompromised four beat lateral gait. We are very proud of the single-footing horse and hope to see them excel on the trails and in the show rings. Our intention is to do nothing to jeopardize the integrity of the single-footing horse in anything we do or support.

SHOBA believes that we are blessed with the unique single-footing horse to preserve, promote, enjoy, and provide a means of fellowship with other horse riders. We will promote family oriented trail rides full of fellowship, good times, and horse riding with these wonderful fast, smooth, single-footing horses to support this belief.

Campfire Recipe

Beef Stew Packs

Ingredients

- 2 pounds beef chuck roast, fat trimmed
- 5 or 6 potatoes, peeled and diced
- 6 carrots, peeled and sliced in rounds
- 8 ounces fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 2/3 cup chopped onion
- 2 celery sticks, sliced
- 2 cans golden Mushroom Soup
- Chopped fresh parsley
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Hot pepper sauce, optional
- 6 ice cubes

Directions

Grease six large double thicknesses of foil with cooking spray. Cut the roast into small cubes. Divide roast, potatoes, carrots, mushrooms, onion and celery among foil pieces. Spoon about 1/3 can of soup over each serving. Sprinkle with parsley, salt and pepper; add a few drops of hot pepper sauce if desired. Place one ice cube on each serving and wrap foil around food to make 6 tent packs.

Set foil packs on grate in the grill or medium coals over the fire. Cook 50-60 minutes or until meat and veggies are tender rotating packs several times during cooking.

Digestive Problems in Horses

Unlike many other animals with hooves, horses only have one stomach, but they do have longer intestines for optimal nutrient absorption. This means that the food that they eat must be easily digested, yet still chock full of the right nutrients. Because of this, horses are prone to developing digestive problems including colic, parasites, and gastric ulcers.

Gastric Ulcers are generally small erosions in the lining of the stomach which are painful and can affect the appetite, appearance, demeanor and riding experience of your horse.

What are the clinical signs? Painful areas in the lining of the stomach causing appetite reduction or inconsistent appetite. He may prefer hard feed to hay because long fiber can traumatize the ulcers and cause pain.

Constant pain in the stomach can cause low grumbling colic, especially after eating

The coat can become dull and the horse's temperament can change, or he can become subdued and tetchy

Ridden exercise can cause the stomach acid to splash onto the ulcers causing pain which can be misinterpreted as a lameness, naughtiness or back pain

Minimizing stress offers the best assurance your horse will not get ulcers. Make sure your horse is turned out as much as possible, that his exercise regime is measured and consistent and that any changes to management or exercise are phased in gradually. Feeding a high proportion of the diet as forage also ensures the acid in the stomach is buffered in contrast with excessive quantities of hard feed which is more likely to create high acid levels and accordingly, damage to the stomach lining.

Colic', the most common digestive problem, is the name given to most abdominal pain in horses. Ranging from a mild stomach ache to a displacement or twist in the intestine requiring lifesaving surgery, colic is many horse owner's biggest concern.

Clinical signs of colic include pawing or scraping the ground, turning to look at the abdomen (flank watching), restlessness or getting up and down frequently, frequent attempts to urinate, rolling, increased pulse and high temperature.

A consistent feeding schedule, a lot of forage and plenty of water, help reduce the risk of colic.

Editor's Choice Horse Phone App

Take control of your horse's health with the free app HorseDialog.

Complete your HorseDialog care schedule to keep track of all your horse's health routines, including worm control, vaccinations, dentistry, farriery and much more.

Never miss an event, medications or appointments with HorseDialog's built-in reminder system.

HorseDialog can be shared with others such as barn managers, friends or family to ensure continuity of care, perfect if you are at work or on holiday.

Another feature of the app is the option to connect with your veterinary practice to have information at your fingertips and better collaboration on your horse's health.

Features Include:

- Vaccination reminder management
- Worming control reminders including recording of egg counts
- Records of visits from your vet and farrier
- Reminders of upcoming events
- Multi-user access
- Automatic GPS ride tracking

SHOBA FLASHBACK!

A hoof abscess is a localized bacterial infection in the sensitive structure of the hoof, the way the hoof gets rid of dead cells from a trauma. Simply, it is a pimple in the hoof. There are many causes of an abscess including the introduction of a foreign body like a pebble, shoeing nails hitting too close to the laminae allowing bacteria to enter, trauma to the sensitive layers of the hoof, a reaction to bruising, laminitis, or going from dry to wet weather conditions

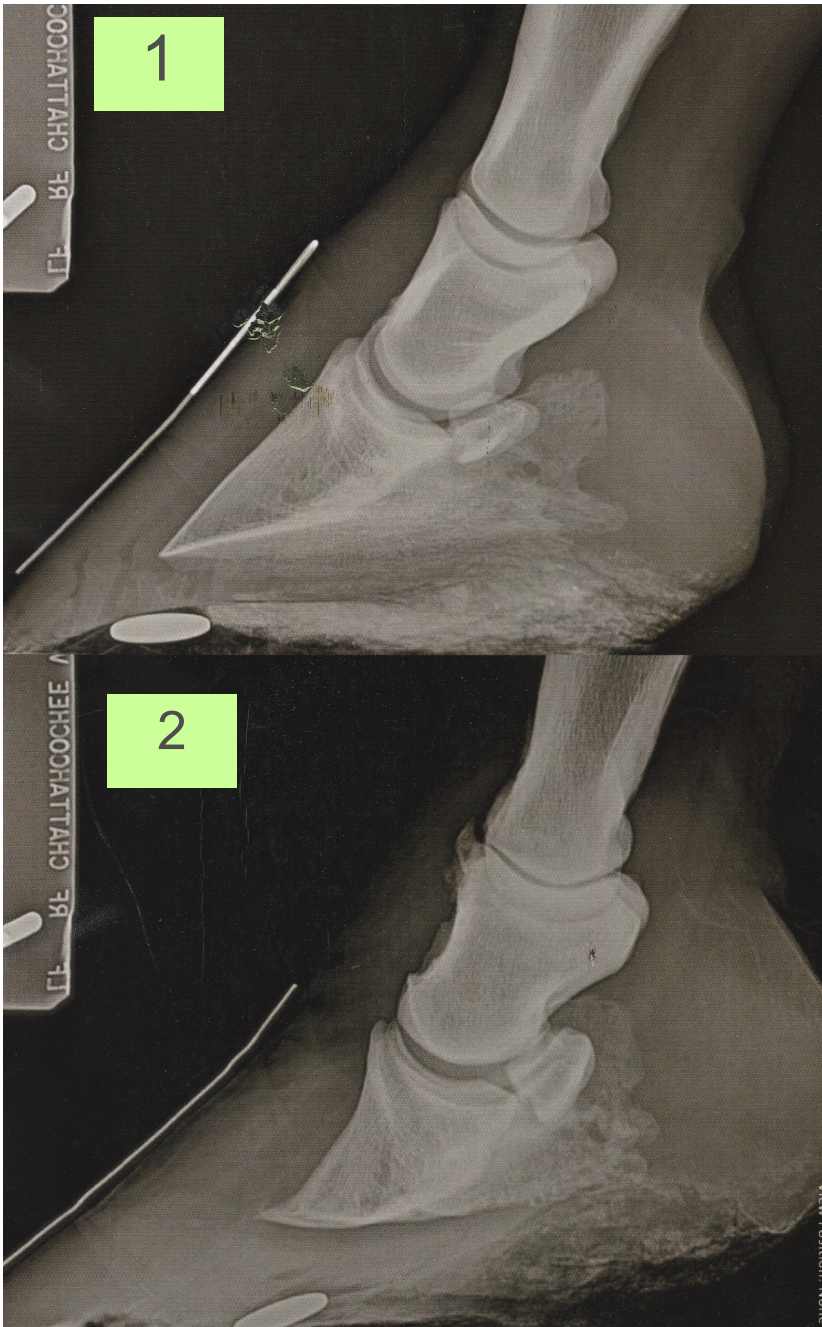

Whatever the reason for the development of the abscess, it is important to know that since the hoof cannot expand, the increased pressure of the pus collecting within the hoof capsule, the body's reaction to the infection, causes what can be significant pain to the horse.

As each day passes, the pus finds and takes the path of least resistance to relieve the pressure and will usually work its way up the hoof wall, normally breaking out at the coronary band, although the abscess can also break through the bulbs on the heel.

Symptoms can range from no symptoms to complete lameness and can include swelling in the lower leg, heat ifelt on the exterior of the hoof wall, increased pulse in the hoof, and attempts to walk on the toe

.If your horse is shod, you will need to pull the shoe then, with hoof pincers, try to pinpoint the sorest area. If you can find the black line (which is what the infected area looks like), then it may be possible to actually create a hole in the sole or the white line area to allow the infection to escape. If the infection is located and a hole is created, a lot of times a blackish or brownish, nasty-smelling fluid will ooze out. Once the hole has been created, you will need to keep the hoof clean, soak once a day in Epsom salt and water, pack it with an Epsom salt poultice, and bandage for several days to a week, depending on how long it takes for the lameness to disappear.

As the lameness decreases, soaking and <sup>5</sup>packing the hoof can decrease in frequency.

2018 Shake, Rattle, and Stroll

Young riders wait for their chance to patriciate in the Juvenile 11-15 Best Gaited, keg shod class

There were several entries in the 10 and under class.

Alabama's newest Straight Away event, located at the popular Seven Springs Lodge in Tuscumbia, boasted well over 100 entries with many of the horses SHOBA registered.

Singer song writer Greg Roberts was present to entertain the crowd with his 3 Up 1 Down hit during the brief intermission.

There were 12 classes including two youth classes, classes for young horses, speed classes and open classes. Thanks for all the hard work, Kari Kirby!

Greg Roberts entertains the crowd with a new soon to be hit.

It was a lively day with everyone having fun!

The Rattlesnake Saloon, located under a picturesque rock overhang, serves food and drinks and even had a live band Saturday night.

Can you tell what is going on here?

1) This hoof is healthy because the extensor process is even with the hairline. It is also almost ground parallel.

2) This foot shows Laminitis (also known as founder), a serious and painful condition that can result in lameness if not treated effectively and within a suitable period of time. Contrary to common belief, this particular type of medical condition is not due to ill conditions but is seen among many horses irrespective of the amount of care being provided.

2018 Cumberland Trail Ride

Larry and Wanda Helm welcome the crowd to their Cumberland River farm in Jamestown, Kentucky

Friday's trail ride featured a scenic overlook Pictured. Ben Cantrell, Doug Stanley, Larry Helm, and Daniel Lamb

The weather was perfect, the hospitality first rate, the meals scrumptious, and the setting spectacular for the June 15-16 Trail Ride at Larry and Wanda Helm's river house farm.

Saturday's ride was mountain riding in the woods starting at the trail behind the church

A trip to the Rock House a few miles from the farm as supper preparations were underway. The food was phenomenal!

Resting up for the next climb

With more than 30 horses on the farm and trailers parked under the trees and in the cow pasture, the atmosphere was peaceful and welcoming. If you missed this ride, you missed the best one of the season!
